The Bill Providing for a Uniform System Agreed To.

FULL TEXT OF THE MEASURE AS IT WILL GO TO THE PRESIDENT FOR SIGNATURE—HOW RIGHWATS MAY BE CONDENNED AND DAMAGES ASSESSED AND AWARDED.

Mr. Harris today reported to the Senate the conference report on Senate bill No. 1807, "To provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Columbia lying outside of cities," and it was adopted without debate. The report having been adopted by the side of cities," and it was adopted without de-bate. The report having been adopted by the House yesterday afternoon the bill now needs only the President's signature to become a law.

Mr. Hemphill in presenting the report to the

Mr. Hemphill in presenting the report to the House submitted a statement of the House Statement to accompany the report of the House conferees on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the House amendments to Senate bill No. 1307, "To provide a permanent system of highways in that part of the District of Coof highways in that part of the District of Co-lumbia lying outside of cities."

The most material amendment of the House to which the Senate objected relates to the pay-ment of damages assessed for the condemna-tion of land taken for the purposes of high-ways, &c. The Senate hill, as it originally came to the House, provided that one-third of the to the House, provided that one-third of the damages so assessed should be put upon the lands abutting on the highway. The House changed this by providing that the amount awarded as damages in any case of condemnation should be assessed wholly upon the land benefited thereby, or upon the lands and the District of Columbia, as the court should adjudge, and that the amount assessed against the District of Columbia should be paid exclusively from the revenues thereof. The Senate insists that the proportion to be paid in each case by the District and the property owners respectively should be definitely fixed in the law, and insists on making it half to each, and the House conferees recommend agreement thereto.

ond and third amendments relate to point, and are made to harmonize the he change proposed in the first.
urth amendment of the House was the same point, and are made to harmonize the bill with the change proposed in the first. The fourth amendment of the House was designed to exempt the United States from all liability for any expense in connection with any street, reservation or circle or other improve-ment outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown.

The conferees on the part of the Senate insist that this exemption is too broad, as it would apply to the Washington aqueduct, the sist that this exemption is too broad, as it would apply to the Washington aqueduct, the reservations on which its reservoirs are located and apply to any and all kinds of improvements now existing or hereafter to be made in the District outside of the cities under authority of Congress. The amendment has been amended so as to provide that no expenses incurred for the improvement of any street, circle, reservation or part thereof condemned and estimatory further stated that he was improvement of any street, circle, reservation or part thereof condemned and estimatory further stated that he was of the output of the sentence, and that unless the execution of the sentence, and that unless the execution was postponed by the Court of the District.

AWARDING OF DAMAGES.

It is provided also "That the amount awarded by said court as damages for each highway or reservation or part thereof condemned and estimated in the Court in General Term, or by the Supreme Court in General Term, or by the Cou mprovement of any street, circle, reservation improvement of any street, circle, reservation or avenue laid out under the provisions of this act outside the cities of Washington and Georgetown shall be chargeable to the United States treasury, but shall be paid entirely out of the revenues of the District of Columbia.

The fifth amendment of the House is rendered when the control of the treasure by these served as the control of the treasure of the treasur dered unnecessary by those agreed on by the conferees and recommended for the approval of the House, and your conferees recommend that the House recode from the same. The Senate recedes from its disagreement to he sixth amendment of the House, with the following amendment: "In case the court shall enter judgment of condemnation in any case and appropriation is not made by Congress for the payment of such award within the period of six months, Congress being in session for that time after such award, or for the period of six months after the meeting of the next session of Congress, the proceedings shall be void and the land shall revert to the owner." This amendment is to provide against the act secoming inoperative by reason of Congress not being in session in time to give effect to its terms relating to the appropriation of the money necessary to satisfy awards made against the District of Columbia.

The seventh amendment of the House was designed to give preference in the opening of streets and avenues to those localities in which streets and avenues to those localities in which the greatest areas of ground might be dedicated for such use. Your conferees agree with those of the Senate that such provision might compel the opening of some streets and avenues in prefer-ence to others in which the public had a much more important interest. That in this regard the Commissioners should be allowed discretion n this work greater than would thus be given them, to select for first attention those sections demanded by the best interests of the public. We therefore recommend that the House recede false pretenses.

Mr. J. K. White of the supervising architect's The eighth and ninth amendments are rendered unnecessary by reason of the changed phraseology and form of the bill as made by the amendments already recommended, and your conferees therefore recommend that the House under alleged false pretenses. MR. BLOUNT SATISFIED.

Mr. Hemppill said that the report as presented provided that the cost of any improvements that may hereafter be made under this act outside the cities of Washington and Georgetown in the way of improvement or maintenance of streets is to be charged to the revenue of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Blanchard—Does this bill define the

Mr. Blanchard—Does this bill define the present limits of the city of Washington?

Mr. Hemphill—No, sir. Those have already been defined and nothing in this bill makes any change in that respect.

Mr. Blount, referring to the provision that all

Mr. Blount, referring to the provision that all expense involved is chargeable to the revenues of the District, said this removed the ground of his former objection. He remarked that he believed this was a step in advance, as it recognized the objection made to the principle on which District expenditures had been divided between the municipal and federal government. There That matter, however, had never come before the House in such a form as would enable them to bring about a change of policy in that them to bring about a change of policy in that regard. But when this proposition came be-fore the House relating to that portion of the District away from the territory where most of District away from the territory where most of the federal property lies, the opportunity arose to present the question as to the in-justice of the proportion which has hereto-fore been recognized. Advantage having been taken of that opportunity, it is now conceded, he said, in this report as the will of Congress that in the future extension of streets, avenues, circles and reservations outside of these two cities the general treasury shall not be chargeable with expense. Provisions of the Bill. The bill as passed provides as follows: That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized and directed to prepare a plan for the extension of a perma-nent system of high ways over all that portion of said District not included within the limits of the cities of Washington and Georgetown. Said system shall be made as nearly in conformity with the street plan of the city of Washington s oners may deem advisable and the Commissioners may deem advisable and practicable. The highways provided in such plans shall not in any case be less than ninety feet nor more than 160 feet wide except in cases of existing highways, which may be established of any width not less than their existing width and not more than 160 feet in width.

Sec. 2. That the said plans shall be pre-pared from time to time in sections, each of which shall cover such an area as the Commissioners may deem advisable to include therein, and it shall be the duty of the Com-therein, and it shall be the duty of the Commissioners in preparing such plan by sections, as far as may be practicable, to select first such areas as are covered by existing suburban subdivisions not in conformity with the general plan of the city of Washington. The Commissioners in making such plans shall adopt and conformity any then existing subdivisions which shall have been made in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 27, 1888, entitled "An act to regulate the subdivision of land within the District of Columbia," or which shall, in the opinion of the Commissioners, conform to the general plan of the city of Washington. Provided, however, that no place or street extending no farther than from one principal street to another, which has been opened under the direction of the Commissioners, or in conformity with any subdivision approved by them twice to August 27, 1888, and recorded, and which is now paved with asphalt, or other street pavements, shall be altered of the continuation of the commissioners, or in conformity with any subdivision approved by them twice to August 27, 1888, and recorded, and which is now paved with asphalt, or other street pavements, shall be roads established by them therein; the boundaries and dimensions of and number of equare feet in each, if any, of the then existing highways in the area covered by such map, and the boundaries and dimensions of and number of square feet, in each lot of any then existing subdivision owned by private persons; and containing such explanations as shall be necessary to a complete understanding of such map. In making such maps the Commissioners are further authorized to lay out at the intersections of the principal avenues and streets thereof circles or other reservations, corresponding in number and dimensions with those now existing at such intersections in the city of
